

You've done it!

You've set a goal. One that has tremendous significance for you. One that is meaningful. One that could make a fundamental difference in your life.

You've set a goal that really matters. To you. To your organization. To your family. To your world.

Education Profile

You know that reaching this goal may mean the fulfillment of your dreams. Of your hopes. Of your greater potential.

It may mean extraordinary things. Success, as you define it. Accomplishment. Confidence. Empowerment. Growth. Ease.

You know what it's like to reach higher. And get there.

You know what success looks like. You know that you value it. You know that it matters to you. And you know why.

Now you want to know how to sustain it. And advance it. Even accelerate it.

CREATING WHAT MATTERS was designed for people like you. For people who want the ability to create what truly matters to them.

For people who want the ability to create success not only in their own lives, but in their organizations as well. The ability to create true leaders, with real vision. To create an environment where people work enthusiastically. Easily. Effortlessly. Seamlessly. Proudly. Energetically. Productively. And enjoyably.

success

CREATING WHAT MATTERS is for those who are success-oriented and who want to know how to sustain, and advance, that success.

This dynamic, fast-paced education challenges participants to determine what really matters to them. It then gives them the means to create that. Whatever that is.

CREATING WHAT MATTERS teaches the principles and tools that lead to sustained, measurable growth for organizations and individuals. Principles and tools that create a clear path to accomplishing and results.

Principles such as the creative process – the dynamic, learning process through which you are able to build momentum, and gain strength, ability and experience over time. We give you the tools to precisely define your goals, accurately measure your current reality, and design precise action plans that lead you directly to the accomplishment of your goals.

You'll also learn about structural dynamics. About the structures in your life and organization that determine the final outcome of your actions. You'll learn how to form the most powerful structures – those that lead you to successful outcomes, and become the platform for your continued success and accelerated growth.

CREATING WHAT MATTERS challenges participants to determine what matters most to them. To be honest about where they are in relationship to it now. And to create the way there.

This education is about being the consummate professional. About learning how not to let emotions affect performance. About determining a sound business strategy, and taking actions that support it. And about doing so with such clarity that everyone in the organization achieves the desired results.

CREATING WHAT MATTERS is education taught, over a period of two days, by means of videos, short films, exercises, group interactions and strategic planning.

It was designed, developed and taught by Robert Fritz, who appears on video and utilizes short films to illustrate major concepts. A facilitator guides participants through the course content that, together with exercises, is customized to individual needs. CREATE WHAT MATTERS TO YOU.

opportunity

vision

momentum

confidence

Robert Fritz, founder of Robert Fritz Inc., is a best-selling author and consultant. For the last 20 years, he has been actively developing the field of structural dynamics, first through his work on the creative process, and then in the area of organizational, business and management issues.

As a consultant, Fritz has helped many organizations, including Fortune 500 companies as well as mid-size companies, governments and non-profits, put the structural approach into practice.

Robert Fritz, Inc. is at the forefront of revolutionary change in how organizations structure themselves to produce sustainable, high performance.

More than 80,000 individuals have participated in his courses throughout the world.

CREATING WHAT MATTERS is Robert Fritz's newest curriculum, co-developed by Global Partners Inc.

For more information about the CREATING WHAT MATTERS education, please contact Global Partners Inc. at 604-511-8125 or at www.wecreateresults.com.

growth

performance

teamwork